Efficient, first-rate service

FOUNDED IN 1989 BY ISAAC NEUBERGER, MICHAEL QUINN and Price Gielen, Neuberger, Quinn, Gielen, Rubin & Gibber, P.A., practices general business law and provides outstanding professional representation with an eye toward controlling costs. The firm focuses on commercial and corporate transactions, civil and criminal litigation, real estate, estates and trusts, bankruptcy, tax and securities regulation.

Seven of Neuberger, Quinn, Gielen, Rubin & Gibber, P.A.'s principals appear on this year's Maryland Super Lawyers® list. Deborah Devan, Robert Ercole, Allan Gibber, Price Gielen, Cynthia Leppert and Michael Quinn return as honorees, while Richard Rubin comes newly recognized. Five of them—Devan, Ercole, Gibber, Gielen and Rubin—and another principal, Thomas (Sam) Wood, also appear in The Best Lawyers in America. It is Gibber and Devan's 12th year honored in the publication.

BUSINESS AND CORPORATE Neuberger leads the firm's business and corporate practice and focuses on transactions, including mergers and acquisitions, venture and project financing, reorganizations, restructurings and complex business disputes. Quinn focuses on business acquisitions, corporate financing, general business, computer, Internet and income tax law. Ercole concentrates on individual and business tax and corporate planning, real estate joint ventures, financing and mergers and acquisitions.

LITIGATION AND BANKRUPTCY Gielen heads the litigation practice group, while Devan handles bankruptcy matters. Gielen deals with an array of civil and criminal litigation matters, including disputes between business owners, breaches of fiduciary duties and civil and criminal fraud cases.

Devan's experience with business bankruptcy matters has led to her recognition among the Top 50 in 2007 and Top 25 Women in 2007 and 2008 Maryland Super Lawyers.

Leppert is a recipient of The Daily Record's Leadership in Law Award and is President of the Women's Bar Association of Maryland. Wood concentrates on business and real estate litigation, with a special focus on employment discrimination and automobile dealership litigation.

REAL ESTATE Rubin leads the firm's real estate practice. In 2007, the group handled transactions valued at more than $2 billion. Rubin's focus includes commercial development and financing as well as single and multifamily property acquisition and development. Robert Legg concentrates on transfers and financing and development, including retail shopping center and commercial office construction and leasing, land acquisition and development and securitized lending transactions.

ESTATES AND TRUSTS Gibber leads the estates and trusts practice. He concentrates on estate and succession planning, estate and gift taxation, wills, trusts and probate trust administration.
